

This image shows a vertical strip of a book's binding. On the left, there is a dark, textured spine. To the right of the spine is a light-colored, possibly white or cream, page. The page appears to be blank, with some faint, illegible markings or shadows visible near the binding edge. The overall image is oriented vertically.